

THE DARWIN PROJECT

The Darwin Project was formed in 2005 to speed the shift in education and the media from old paradigm Darwinism to the theory and story of evolution of Darwin's long ignored original intention and the thousands of modern scientific studies that corroborate, update, expand, and advance it. In support of this mission a Darwin Project Council was formed of over fifty distinguished American, European, and Asian educators, scientists, and media activists. For concerned people looking for ways to put the past behind us and more speedily gain the world our species deserves and aspires to, see our website: www.thedarwinproject.com.
